Dedication

We, the Class of 1962, are indeed proud to honor two of our most well-liked teachers. We bear them in mind not only for their excellent teaching ability, but in addition for their deep interest in every facet of our school activities. They have become to us living symbols of unselfishness, helpfulness, and friendliness.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM C. GREEN

For your indomitable desire to teach, for your ever-present willingness to help us in our problems, for your enthusiastic spirit which has enlivened each of us, and for your unselfish desire to take an active part in all our activities, we, the Class of 1962, holding you in our highest esteem and appreciation, dedicate this 1962 Co-Hi-An to you Mr. and Mrs. William C. Green.

Administration

The organization of a town originates within its administrative facilities. Similarly the operation of a school system depends upon its administrative staff and its faculty. While to our town the court house is a center of government, the administration of a school is an instrument of education. To the staff of the Department of Education, the teachers and the many other members of the school administration belongs the task of creating and maintaining the proper environment and teaching conditions which enable the students to take full advantage of their educational opportunities.

Mr. John A. Gee

The principal of a school must be a man of high integrity, a respected leader, to whom a student may look for scholastic counsel. This man must have the magnitude to command the entire scope of school activities, yet he must display the patience and understanding to deal with small matters. Our undying gratitude goes to the individual of our school possessing these qualities — Mr. John A.

Mrs. Arleeta K. Johnson

The vice-principal of a school has the enormous task of organizing most of the extracurricular activities of the school. This energetic little lady, who is constantly scurrying about, oiling the complicated machinery of Cortland High School, keeps the entire school amazed by her tremendous vitality, her will to work and her deep concern and consideration for others. We give our most sincere thanks to — Mrs. Arleeta K. Johnson.

Seniors

Just as college represents an important element of our town, so does college symbolize the future of the high school graduate. While to our community the college is mainly an economic and social factor, to the graduate, college depicts a new way of life. Some of the graduating class will be attending this college, while others will be attending different institutions of higher learning, and still others will be stepping onto the road of life. No matter how far distant their paths may be, they will always bear in common the heritage of our town and our school.

SENIOR OFFICERS — John Johnson, Treasurer; William Brewer, President; Janet Lash, Secretary; Gary Harrington, Vice President.

Service to the school is a daily routine for Susie Joseph and Bill Brewer.

Personality plus make Jim Schultz and Chopper Buggs our choices as most popular Seniors.

Could this be the successful future which lies in store for Rosalie Elespuru and Paul LeRoy?

Judy Brewer and Lynn Spiess display the smiles that won them the title of cutest Seniors.

Who

'62

For class "pin-ups," Seniors give the nod to Janet Lash and Don Hull.

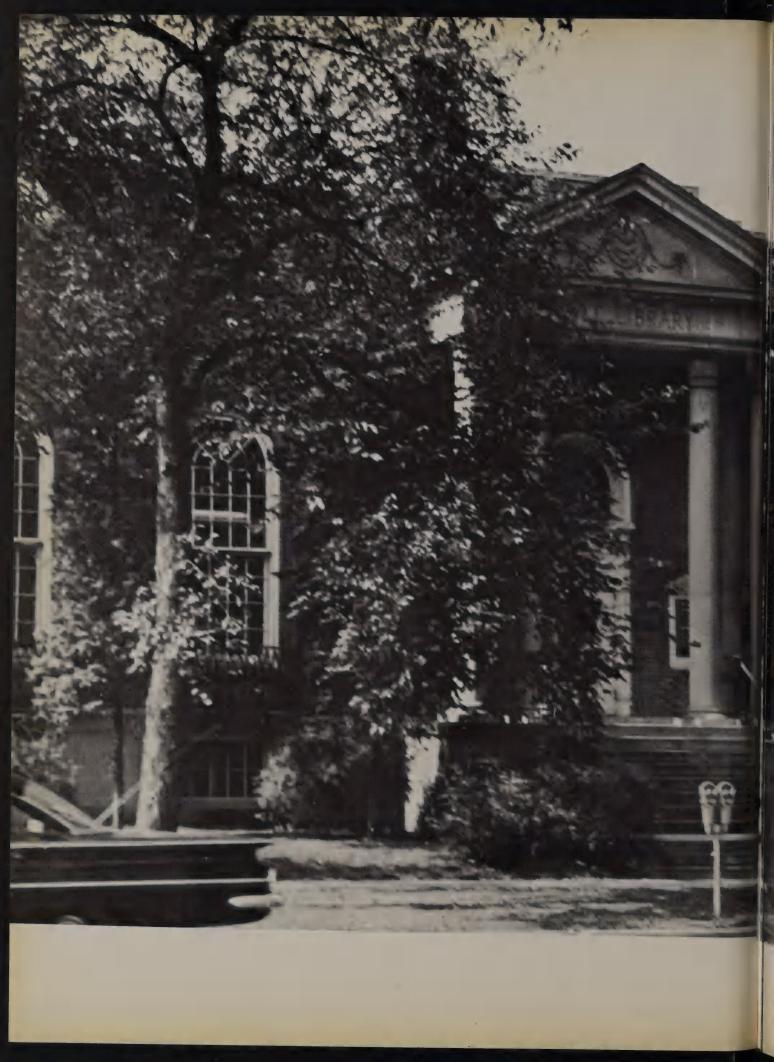

Anything can happen when class wits John Powers and Carolyn Moulton are on the loose.

Intelligence and studiousness are the credentials of honor students, John Johnson and Karen Halstead.

Bill White and Sharon Young are busy finding new ways to excel in CHS sports.

Underclassmen

To our town the library represents an important source of knowledge and information. To the underclassman, however, the library stands as a symbol to his chief occupation: obtaining an education. Citizens of the town look upon the library as a source of books and place of tranquil meditation. The underclassman, from the viewpoint of a student, considers the Library also as a place for study and research. While it is natural for the underclassman to spend time in recreation, earning extra money, or developing his interests, he must never lose sight of his primary goal of gaining an education.

Activities

The YWCA and YMCA form the back-bone of the youth program of our town. In a similar manner the activities of the high school are an inseparable part of the process of educating a well-rounded individual. In these youth organizations of our town the men and women of tomorrow develop their physical, mental, and spiritual excellence. In school these same qualities are brought out in each individual as he participates in the extracurricular activities which match his interests and talents

Senior High Student Council, the student governing body of Cortland High School, is constantly working to improve the financial status of the school's extracurricular activities. The annual G. O. campaign, sponsored by Student Council, is used to collect funds to be used by the school's clubs. Clubs may also solicit funds by requesting mixers after C.H.S. athletic events. Other projects sponsored by Student Council are the annual Christmas canned food drive and Good Grooming Week.

G. O. Penalty Assembly takes a new twist.

Junior High Student Council

The governmental body of the seventh and eighth grades is the Junior High Student Council. The ideas promoted by the Council are service, sportsmanship, and leadership. It also carries on the basic functions of the Senior High Student Council, but for the Junior High.

Co-Hi-An Literary Staff

Every year, the Co-Hi-An staff claims to have produced the best yearbook yet, and this year our claim is as true as ever. The Literary Staff reached a fever pitch before each deadline, as they wrote and typed copy for the yearbook. The Business Staff provided the necessary capital by selling advertisements and subscriptions.

Business Editors at their best.

Co-Hi-An Editorial Staff

The editing of a yearbook — a year's task — is the responsibility of the Co-Hi-An Editorial Staff. Organizing the Business and Editorial Staffs, planning the book, and meeting the deadlines were all parts of completing this exacting job.

Working hard, Susie ensures the top quality of the Purple Pennant.

The Purple Pennant, published monthly by the students of CHS, requires three large staffs to organize, write articles, and secure advertisements for the paper. The Editorial staff has enlivened the paper this year with many innovations, such as featured sports, larger and more pictures, bold type, and column headings. The staff has encouraged students to contribute their own poems and articles and has sponsored several unusual contests.

The reporters, copyreaders, proofreaders, typists, and photographers that comprise the Literary staff are indispensable in the publishing of the newspaper. To the Business staff belongs the task of securing advertisers.

One of the highest honors a student of Cortland High School can receive is selection into the Ferdinand E. Smith Chapter of the National Honor Society. Membership is based on the qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Among the duties of the members are service to the school and community, sponsorship of the honor banquet, and computing the homeroom averages for the awarding of the honor banners.

Orchestra

Mr. Weaver, Mr. Riordan, Mr. Fabrizio.

Under the able direction of Mr. Weaver, the orchestra has been a great source of pride to CHS this year. This group presents high quality programs during the year, and was honored this year by an invitation to play at the NYSSMA music festival.

In his first year as chairman of the Music Department, Mr. Weaver finds himself busier than ever. Along with Mr. Fabrizio and Mr. Riordan, both graduates of CHS, he is carrying on the traditions of our fine Music Department with a maximum of time and effort.

Junior Band

The saying, "practice makes perfect," holds true for these Senior Band members as well as for those in Junior Band. The high standards of ability maintained by the Music Department plays an important part in producing musicians of which our school can be proud.

Dance Band activities showed a new twist this year, when the group received the honor of performing on television. These fine musicians were certainly deserving of that privilege, for their performances at the mixers held after the basketball and football games have been more enjoyable than ever.

DANCE BAND — Front Row: P. Suydam, S. Erway, F. Lehlbach, D. Vande Bogart, A. Bentley, B. Cohen. Second

The Senior Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Palmer and comprised of mixed voices, is the major vocal group in Cortland High School. The members of this club experience the benefits of musical expression.

Dance Band

Majorettes

MAJORETTES — C. Cifonelli, M. Stas, D. Oughterson, G. Stevens, B. Mannion.

High-stepping entertainment for basketball fans.

The energetic, high stepping majorettes led the marching band enthusiastically. This year they not only performed during the football halftimes, but also provided halftime entertainment for the basketball games.

The Rockettes, under the direction of Mr. William Green, are the first dancing group formed at CHS. While performing at football and basketball halftimes, they help to boost school spirit.

Rockettes

ROCKETTES — M. Spencer, P. Card, L. Jenney, Captain; L. Griswold, Co-Captain; S. Stull, P. Smith, J. Hannon, M. Chiara,

Noon Service

The Senior English classes of Mr. Baldwin and Mrs. Stell form this worthwhile service club. It is the task of the members to keep students from loitering in the halls and to prevent them from unnecessarily entering the school during the noon hour. By doing so they not only keep the halls orderly, but also give the teachers time to enjoy a well-deserved rest.

Athletics

The high school gymnasium, the center of athletic events during the winter, forms the scene where students and people from the town may follow the activities of the high school team. To the school, however, the gymnasium means more than interscholastic athletic competition; it signifies an important part of our educational system. Besides physical education classes, students have the opportunity of engaging in intramural athletics, and of developing their athletic potential to the highest degree by participation in the numerous interscholastic sports.

Show have fither your war.

BOYS' ATHLETIC COUNCIL — Front Row: R. Shafer, Director of Athletics, G. Harrington, D. Hull, W. Brewer, J. Johnson, R. Brown, R. Condie, L. Smith. Second Row: C. Wood, L. Sardo, R. Hartford, J. Schultz, D. Jones, D. Hart, B. Janes, M. Discenza.

Boys' Athletic Council

Mr. Shafer presides over an intramural game between the sophomores and juniors.

The Boys' Athletic Council, responsible for the operation of the concession stands at football and basketball games and the organization of intramural athletics, is instrumental in the functioning of the athletic program of Cortland High School. In addition to participating in sports themselves, the members award letters to the outstanding players at the end of the year.

Girls' Athletic Association

GAA member Heidi Wendland assists Mrs. Cox in a junior high gymnastics class.

The Girls' Athletic Association is a group of responsible sports-minded girls who are always ready to improve the sports life in CHS. The girls assist Mrs. Cox in gym classes and referee for intramural games after school. During the course of the year the members of G.A.A. participate in or play host at sports play-days.

"What do I do now, Mush?"

Rocketing to convincing victories in their first five games of the year, the Tigers ran into exceedingly stiff competition in the final three encounters. Displaying excellent team spirit, together with fine blocking and tackling, the Purple Tigers outplayed their larger and more experienced foes. The past season was a fine tribute to Mush's coaching ability. With only eight returning lettermen, Mush took a largely inexperienced team and molded it into a well-balanced unit.

Wrestling

Wrestling, a recognized sport for thousands of years, is not primarily a team sport. Once on a mat, a wrestler can depend on none but himself. This year the CHS wrestling squad, hampered by lack of depth, has not had an outstanding record, but the individual members of the team have gained valuable experience and skill. Their coach, Mr. Hennessy, who instituted system training here, has given them the basics of wrestling over the last two years. The future looks bright and with enough school spirit our matmen will rise to new heights.

Advertising

In the same way that a bank is an essential component of a commercial town, money is a necessity in the production of a year-book. While a bank's purpose is to conduct the financial affairs of a town, advertising produces a portion of the funds necessary for the publishing of a school annual. Yet in addition to helping the school in this way, advertising influences the relationship between the school and the businessmen of the town by stirring the school's interest in business and the businessmen's interest in the school. Thus, advertising brings the school and businessmen into a closer understanding.
